

Philosophy of Language

Are you curious about the nature of language and how it shapes our understanding of the world?

Join us in an online course that looks at the fascinating depths of the philosophy of language. In this short course, we will explore thought provoking questions that have captivated thinkers for centuries. What is the essence of language and how do we construct meaning through words? How does language reflect our view of the world and how do children acquire this remarkable ability and what does it reveal about the human mind? Is language species specific or can animals and AI truly learn language? Through discussion, we will consider the limits and possibilities of language, so you get an appreciation for the philosophical underpinnings of language and its impact on our lives.

Drawing on Siobhan Chapman's work 'Thinking about Language' we'll invite you to rethink the way you perceive language and to challenge conventional wisdom. Whether you're a lover of philosophy, a student of linguistics or someone with a thirst for learning new things, this course promises to ignite your intellectual curiosity.

Delivery

3 weeks online, 2 hours per week.

Dates and Times

Friday 9am to 11am (from September 2024).

Target Audience

Anyone curious about the nature of language.

Cost

£195 per participant.

How to apply

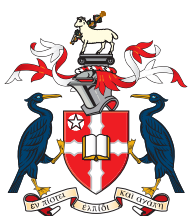

To apply or for more information please contact:

The PLD Team
Liverpool Hope University
Hope Park
Liverpool
L16 9JD

Tel: 0151 291 3061/3834

Email: pld@hope.ac.uk

www.hope.ac.uk/pld

LIVERPOOL
HOPE UNIVERSITY

1844

School of Humanities