POST: Lecturer in Law

STARTING DATE: As soon as possible

SALARY RANGE: £37,999 - £45,163 (Grade 7) per annum

TYPE OF CONTRACT: Fixed Term (18 Months)

WORK PATTERN: Full Time

REPORTS TO: Head of the School of Law and Criminology

The Post

Our new appointees will work with others to take law forward as part of the long-term development of the School of Law and Criminology. We seek applications from those with aspiration and drive. Candidates must have a desire to be part of a committed, dedicated, and forward-thinking team. For the successful candidates, Liverpool Hope University can offer an enriching, supportive and unique environment in which to work. This is a great opportunity for candidates who not only want to develop their own career, but also contribute to the strategic development the School of Law and Criminology, the University and the career aspirations and life chances of future generations of students. The School of Law and Criminology will provide a research and practice-informed curriculum and a student experience that seeks to prepare students with the knowledge, skills, capabilities, and capacities that will be essential for careers in the legal profession and beyond. Having recently revalidated our undergraduate provision, and as a result of rising student numbers, we are keen to receive applications for the post of Lecturer in Law from highly motivated, energetic candidates seeking a new opportunity in one of the fastest growing Law teams in the UK.

While we welcome applications from candidates with expertise in any area of Law. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to new and existing provision within the School, to support future curriculum developments, and to engage with the research profile of the law team.

The University is rapidly developing its research profile and has an ambitious agenda for the future. All new academic staff appointed to the University as Lecturers must either already be research active at 3* or above or have the proven capacity, willingness and ability to become research active at this level for the next REF. The University has various support mechanisms in place to help scholars who are ambitious in developing this strong research profile.

We recruit staff nationally and internationally as we seek out the best to help build Hope for the future. If you join us you will be doing so at an exciting time as we work to build a liberal arts inspired university of distinction in the UK.

Candidates should have a research and teaching profile in line with criteria outlined in the Person Specification.

Requirement for PHD

A PhD is required for this post. When completing your application please include the title and a copy of the abstract of your doctoral dissertation.

Requirement for FHEA or equivalent

The University seeks to ensure that all academic staff who teach have relevant training and/or experience and to this end, the norm is to ask new colleagues to complete a 15 credit M level (FHEQ Level 7) module in Classroom Practice. The University covers the cost of this and it is taught intensively in the first few weeks of the new academic year (total contact hours are around 15). The University also sets achievement of FHEA status (or above) as a probationary target and offers full support for colleagues to achieve this, again covering the costs. One way this can be done is by means of an individual application direct to the HEA. Hope runs workshops for those going down this route.
