For undergraduates who receive their offer through UCAS, your contract takes effect either:

2. Suspension of Courses Prior to Registration

- 2.1. While the University makes every effort to provide the courses it has advertised in its prospectus and other promotional material, there are occasions, for reasons beyond its control or when numbers are so low that the student experience would be diminished, when it is not possible to deliver a course in a given academic year for which it has made offers. In such cases, the University will make every possible effort to offer you a place on an alternative course at the University or release you to allow you to seek an alternative course at another university.

3. Discontinuing a Course post Registration

- 3.1. The University has developed a Student Protection Plan, approved by the Office for Students, this plan sets out what the University will do if there is a risk that the University is unable to preserve continuity of study for you.
- 3.2. If the University discontinues your course once you have already started on course and we are unable to complete delivery of the course, we will inform you as soon as is reasonably possible. In such circumstances we will endeavor to offer the course for a reasonable amount of time to ensure teach out. If this is not possible, the University will use all reasonable efforts to transfer you to a suitable alternative University course for which you are qualified. If the University is unable to provide a suitable alternative or if you are unhappy with the recommended alternative course, you may cancel the Contract and withdraw from the course. The University has a Refund and Compensation Policy that operates in these situations which can be found in Annex C of the Regulations for the Payment of University Fees document.

4. Changes to a Course

- 4.1. The University is continuously developing, refining and improving its services and courses, and introducing new options for the benefit of its students. This may be to reflect student feedback or matters of academic judgement or expertise, to accommodate changes or developments in learning theory or practice or teaching practices or facilities, or to keep courses and areas of study current. This may lead to changes in the terms, content or delivery of the University's courses from those set out in Subject Leaflets, the prospectus or website.

- 4.2. In circumstances where there is no material disadvantage to you or when it is solely for your benefit, the University reserves the right to make minor variations to the contents or methods of delivery of courses from those described in the prospectus or other promotional material. Such changes will take account of the reasonable expectations of prospective and current students
- 4.3. In circumstances where it is necessary to make a material change to your course (likely to have a significant impact on your studies as reasonably determined by us), we will consult with you before final decisions are made and consider your concerns (subject to section 4.4 below). We will assess these against the needs of the wider student body. If you are unhappy with the material change(s) to your course, you may cancel the Contract and withdraw from the course.
- 4.4. Section 4.3 above shall apply except where the change is required for regulatory or legal reasons, or on account of events beyond the University's control (see below under clause 5), in which case the University will notify you of this as soon as possible and try to minimise any adverse impact on you.
- 4.5. Applicants - There are also occasions when the University may continue to offer a course to applicants, but its content may be significantly different from the description of the course in its prospectus or other promotional material as the quality and scope of courses are improved. In such cases, the University will contact applicants to let them know and will do everything possible to offer a place on an alternative course if the changes mean that the course no longer meets their needs. Applicants who have accepted an offer would also have the opportunity to withdraw from the course.

5. Events Outside of Our Control

- 5.1. The University shall not be liable to you for events outside of its control which it could not have foreseen or prevented, even if we had taken reasonable care. Such events include, but are not limited to: strikes, other industrial action, staff illness, over or under demand from students, severe weather, fire, civil commotion, riot, invasion, terrorist attack or threat of terrorist attack, war, natural disaster, restrictions imposed by government or public authorities, significant changes to our funding or government higher education policy; epidemic or pandemic disease, or failure of public utilities or transport systems.
- 5.2. Should any such circumstances arise, we reserve the right to change or cancel parts or all, of your course. We will take reasonable and proportionate steps to mitigate any adverse impact on you.

In addition, tuition fees may be subject to increases in line with inflation, to reflect the University's costs of delivering its courses. If we decide to increase fees the University will aim to notify you in writing as soon as possible.
- 6.3. You agree to abide by University Fees Regulations. Failure to pay fees and charges when due may lead to sanctions, including suspension or termination of studies.
- 6.4. If you decide to withdraw from the University, you are advised to speak to your School or Department who can give you advice as to the available options. If you decide to proceed with withdrawal you must complete an interruption or withdrawal from studies form.
- 6.5. The amount of fees you have to pay after your withdrawal will depend on when you withdraw, the type of course you are studying and how your fees are paid. Your end date is your last day of attendance, not the date your withdrawal form is completed. Your last day of attendance will be the date communicated to the SLC to ascertain the amount of maintenance loan you are entitled to.
